Archie is desperate to go to the park but it's so difficult to access any of them, mostly because of the grass and his wheelchair doesn't push well on grass and also, there isn't much equipment he can go on, the swings, he's too big for the baby swings and isn't able to get his legs in due to his lower limb paralysis and unable to manoeuvre them himself whilst I lift him. He can't sit on the normal swings due to his balance. And the roundabouts aren't wheelchair accessible. St James park we can access easily enough with it having the park along the bottom and no grass there but he's unable to use the play equipment. Can you forward this on to the relevant people as we feel very isolated and unable to actually do much at all at the moment. I believe the nearest accessible play park is in Exeter which is crazy in this day and age.

I did leave a message with Harriet I think her name was but thought I would email you instead.

Thanks
Gemma
