Subject: Swan Lake -workshop

Information on Swan Lake takes flight community workshop

Matthew Bourne's New Adventures is a British dance-theatre company, famous for telling stories with a unique theatrical twist. This year marks the 30th Anniversary of their iconic portrayal of Swan Lake. As part of their 30th Anniversary tour, they are aiming to bring dance to 2500 children and young people across the country who wouldn't ordinarily, due to circumstances, poverty, location, ability, etc. have access to this opportunity. After an application, we were very lucky to be chosen to receive one of these workshops due to our location and mix of young people who attend The Coppola School of Performing Arts.

I would like to thank the Council for the use of the Main Hall for this activity, which was brought to us at no cost to the participants. The project is being evaluated by Brunel University to analyse the impact of dance on wellbeing, a subject very close to my heart, especially with the government's cut to arts funding in general and in the education system. New Adventures is a registered charity and through funding are being able to deliver these workshops throughout the country.

Kind regards
Kelly Brown
